Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

To supplement our condensed consolidated financial statements, which are prepared and presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States ("GAAP"), we present revenue less transaction costs as a non-GAAP financial measure. A definition of revenue less transaction costs appears as part of this presentation, and revenue less transaction costs is reconciled to GAAP total revenue by adding back the transaction costs for the applicable period. In addition, when providing information about our forecasted future financial performance, in addition to revenue less transaction costs, we provide the non-GAAP financial measures revenue less transaction costs as a percentage of GMV, revenue less transaction costs as a percentage of revenue, adjusted other operating expenses as a percentage of revenue, and adjusted operating margin. Reconciliations of these additional non-GAAP measures to the comparable GAAP measures is not available without unreasonable effort due to the uncertainty regarding, and the potential variability of, expenses that may be incurred in the future. Our management uses these non-GAAP financial measures in conjunction with financial measures prepared in accordance with GAAP for planning purposes, including the preparation of our annual operating budget, as a measure of our operating results and the effectiveness of our business strategy, and in evaluating our financial performance. However, non-GAAP financial information is presented for supplemental informational purposes only, and our use of these non-GAAP financial measures has limitations as an analytical tool. Accordingly, you should not consider these non-GAAP financial measures in isolation or as substitutes for analysis of our financial results as reported under GAAP, and these non-GAAP measures should be considered along with other operating and financial performance measures presented in accordance with GAAP.

Affirm Can Approve More Customers with Lower Losses...

...Or Take on Less Losses with the Same Amount of Customers

1. For a given level of risk, our proprietary model is capable of accepting significantly more applications when compared to FICO's scoring methods through a superior ability to price risk. Alternatively, for any given consumer sub-segment, our model produces lower risk outcomes than FICO scoring.
